EX-LIEUT. GOV.

WORTHINGTON DEAD

One of the Leading Republicans of Northeastern Kentucky Was 81 Years Old.

News was received here announcing the death at Greeneup, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning of Hon. W. J. Worthington, former Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky during the Bradley administration, and one of the oldest and best known lawyers of the northeastern section of the State. He was in his eighty-first year.

Several months ago he had a serious attack of grip, which occasioned his family and friends some alarm, but he recovered and was in reasonably good health for one of his advanced age when on last Monday night he was again taken ill with a general breakdown, and grew gradually weaker until the end came.

He is survived by three children, his wife having died about two years ago. They are Hon. William Worthington, of Lexington, United States referee in bankruptcy, and former county attorney; Mr. Thomas Worthington, of Greenville, Miss., and Mrs. Annie Strader, of Weiser, Idaho. He also has two grandchildren residing in Lexington—Mr. Chester Callahan, the well-known merchandise broker, and Miss Annie Callahan.

MRS. COCHRAN'S DANCE

Beechwood Park the Scene of a Beautiful Society Gathering Last Night.

The dance and reception given last evening at Beechwood Park by Mrs. Horace January Cochran in honor of Miss Juliet Meriwether, her guest, of Kansas City, Mo., Miss Stella Lee of Covington, Ky., the guest of Miss Ellen Cochran of this city, and Miss Cochran, was one of the most beautiful and charming affairs ever witnessed at this most enticing bit of woodland dell. The park and main pavilion had just been placed in spic and span condition, the walks, the grass and the magnificent forest trees were made into a gorgeous scene of green and gold by the myriad of electric lights garnishing the buildings and grounds.

"The dancin'" was the happiest feature and many of the 160 invited guests indulged in the enticing pastime until 1 a. m.

The Gem Orchestra furnished the music and Traxel the fees.

WEATHER REPORT
FORECAST FOR KENTUCKY—
FAIR TODAY AND SUNDAY AND WARMER.

"HARMONY" YES, PERFECT HARMONY.

"The doctors of this city and our Board of Health, certainly are working together in harmony. No wonder the scarlet fever epidemic is becoming alarming in our city. Out in the East End this week, a doctor lifted the quarantine on a family whose child had recovered from the fever. The following day the Board of Health marched bravely out and placed the quarantine back upon them. Harmony! 'Yes! Perfect harmony!'"

The above quotation formed a caption to an editorial in yesterday's Independent. If a doctor "lifts the quarantine on a family whose child had RECOVERED from scarlet fever" and the "Board of Health marches BRAVELY out and places the quarantine back upon them," then, please tell us where the BRAVERY comes in.

If "the child had RECOVERED from scarlet fever," it is certain that the doctor did the proper thing; and for the Board of Health to placard a house where none of its occupants were ill, but where "the child had recovered from the fever" then such an act should not be characterized as one of "bravery" but of imbecility.

No house can be legally placarded for scarlet fever if it cannot be proven that scarlet fever is in that house. A "suspicious" case can be judiciously quarantined but the house cannot be placarded until the true state of affairs becomes known. It is a very serious matter, from many sides of the case, to incinerate the bread-winner of the family.

It would not be a bad idea for harmony to exist between the Board and physicians and so far as I am aware this medical "Barkis is willing." It is altogether a mistaken idea. The Board of Health has not got the power to do anything it wishes—of one thing I am exceedingly positive—it cannot LEGALLY quarantine a family "whose child had RECOVERED from scarlet fever" and when no contagious case is in the house. Oh, you harmony!

A more desirable place to meet, could not be asked, and a more hearty invitation to attend could not be given than that given by the people of Maysville. They are making preparations for our coming in large numbers. We should not disappoint them.

The sessions of the convention begin at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and close at 4 o'clock Wednesday. C. W. B. M. and State Missions will have the right away the first day and Bible School and kindred interests the second. It is hoped that many who will attend all the sessions.
